LiquidAgents Healthcare Obtains Nurse Agency License From the Illinois Department of Labor

Dallas, Texas -- August 7, 2006 -- LiquidAgents Healthcare, a leading healthcare staffing and comprehensive workforce procurement agency, announces that it has officially obtained the Nurse Agency license from the Illinois Department of Labor. This license allows LiquidAgents to operate as a Nurse Agency in the state of Illinois.

The certification follows the state of Illinois' new Nurse Agency Licensing Act, which requires all staffing providers to obtain a license from the Illinois Department of Labor in order to establish, operate, maintain, or advertise as a nurse agency in the state of Illinois. The purpose of the Act is to protect the public's right to high quality health care by licensing and mandating standards of operation for nurse agencies which refer, employ, or assign registered nurses, licensed practical nurses or certified nurse aides to Illinois health care facilities.

"LiquidAgents is committed to complying with each state's rules and regulations, and this new license required in Illinois is no exception," said Jenny Hanlon, Chief Financial Officer. "We want to do everything possible to ensure healthcare staffing procurement is fair for everyone involved."

The certification required a detailed application to be submitted along with a fee. Also required for submission were an operating agreement, articles of organization, an assumed name certificate, a certificate of authority to transact business in Illinois, a resume of prospective owners with over five percent stock, an employment application, proof of professional liability insurance, an inventory skills and clinical competence checklist, agency policies and procedures, and a supervising registered nurse license and verification printout.

Agencies licensed by the Illinois Department of Labor must also comply with various regulations, listed in detail in the act's compliance synopsis.
